THOUSANDS GREET THE ARCHBISHOP AT SAINT ALBAN'S

Ideal Conditions Attend
Great Open Air Services There.

INSPIRING PROCESSION

Primate of England Heard
By Crowd Filling Cathedral Site.

The Cathedral Close, on Mount St. Alban, was the scene yesterday afternoon of one of the most impressive religious ceremonies ever held in Washington. It was the special unity service conducted by Bishop Satterlee, the visiting bishops, and the Episcopal clergy of the diocese, in honor of the visit to the Capital of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The natural amphitheater at the site of the National Cathedral was a fit setting for the beautiful scene. The modest little stand from which the services were held is on a knoll at the bottom of a very steep hill. Looking toward the congregation from the platform, one could not help noticing its resemblance to a huge, multi-colored fan, as it spread out, covering the sides of the hill to the right and left of the platform, and disappearing over its crest.

Vast Throng Present.

There were 20,000 persons present, drawn by the desire to see the primate of all England, and the most distinguished bishops of the Protestant church of America, conducting the evening service of the Episcopal Church. Some of those obtained seats near the altar, but they were few, comparatively speaking, and the majority hunched on the outskirts and hoped for a look at the procession of churchmen as they marched from the rectory to the scene of the ceremonies, through the long, green aisle, which, but through the masses of humanity like a broad, green ribbon across a bank of flowers.

From midday until 7 o'clock in the evening the eager throngs were going and coming, the congestion on the street car lines being so great that it was dark before any of the visitors could get back to the city.

A part of the crowd went by the Tenleytown line and a part by the Chevy Chase line. Those who went by the Tenleytown line found difficulty in getting on the cars at Thirty-second Street, having to wait often as long as an hour before they could get aboard. Many persons walked far out Thirty-second Street and caught the cars coming back, paying the extra fare gladly, that they might, by riding down to M and Thirty-second Streets, be before of a seat. When the services were over, many persons took the outbound cars and rode to Rockville, in order to insure themselves a seat back to Washington.

At Transfer Station, When the cross line was met at Thirty-second and P Streets, coming home, another difficulty presented itself, for long after 6 o'clock a large crowd of persons were standing there waiting to pile on board the Georgetown cars coming into Washington.

On the Chevy Chase line the crowding was somewhat less. Those going by that line left the cars at Cathedral Avenue, a short distance above Woodley Lane, and took omnibuses for the Cathedral Close. These omnibuses were, for the most part, large express wagons, in which chairs and benches had been placed, but they served their purpose well, and were crowded to overflowing. They were run at intervals sufficiently short to accommodate the crowd that came over the Chevy Chase line.

Hundreds of persons walked from the car line across the Cathedral Avenue to the scene of the services, while others walked out Thirty-second Street and into the Tenleytown Road rather than wait for the buses and cars.

Late in Beginning.

Although the services were set for 3 o'clock, it was after 3:30 before the procession to the rostrum began. It was led by the massed choirs of Washington and a portion of the Marine Band. First came the little boys, who were followed by the Marine Band. Behind the band marched the men of the choir, and following them the clergy, the bishops and the archbishop. The archbishop was preceded by his chaplains and crucifer, who bore the emblem of his office. The procession, sung by the choir, was "Jerusalem the Golden."

Imposing Procession.

Slowly the brilliant procession moved down the winding green aisle, thronged on either side by thousands of eager faces. The towering figure in the procession as it moved forward was Bishop Satterlee, whose great height and striking figure stood out above the rest on the aisle. With him walked Bishop Doane, of Albany, and immediately behind them came the chaplains of the archbishop, who walked alone behind his crucifer. The pathway ran straight down the hill to the platform, and then turned to the left. Following this, the choir spread out to seats on the right of the platform, the band going immediately in front of it. The archbishop passed to the right side of the stand and entered it at the rear. Awaiting him were all the Protestant clergy of Washington and a number of prominent men.

The archbishop took his seat at the front of the platform in the middle. He sat in a remarkable old chair, one which has been in Bishop Satterlee's family for over 30 years, and which has been used on a number of historic occasions. On the right of the archbishop sat Bishop Satterlee, and on his left sat Bishop Doane. Around them sat Bishop Nelson, of Georgia; Bishop Ferguson, the negro bishop of Africa;

MINERS VICTORS IN CONTROVERSY OVER WEIGHMEN

Judge Gray, Umpire,
Renders Decision Favorable to Unions.

MAJORITIES SHOULD RULE

Bosses May Be Selected by Regular Vote When Wanted.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 25.—Judge Gray's decision in the check weighman question, involving all the miners in the anthracite region, was given out here this morning, and while the men did not gain every point for which they contended, the decision is generally accepted as a victory for them. The conclusions reached are as follows:

First—That check weighmen and check docking bosses shall be employed at any of the collieries, whenever requested by a majority of the contract miners of said colliery.

Majorities Rule.

Second—That the wages of said check weighmen and check docking bosses shall be fixed, collected and paid by the miners, meaning all the miners of said colliery, but in such manner as said miners shall by a majority vote elect.

Third—That when proper requests as provided in said award have been made by a majority of the miners at any colliery, it is the duty of the management of said colliery under the award to co-operate with the miners of said colliery in the establishment of check weighmen and check docking bosses and to pay the wages of the same out of proportionate deductions from the earnings of all the contract miners of said colliery, who are employed, or continue in employment after due notice of the employment of check weighmen and check docking bosses under the provisions of said award.

No Assignment.

Fourth—That no assignment of earnings for that purpose is necessary to the due performance of the requirements of this award.

Judge Gray goes into a vast amount of detail in reviewing the troubles leading up to the controversy, and analyzes them, basing his decisions upon the analysis. He concludes, however, by stating that many of the points involved should be decided by the courts of Pennsylvania.

VESUVIUS RAGING; DESTROYS RAILWAY

Eruption of Mountain Is the Worst in 30 Years.

NAPLES, Sept. 25.—Eruption of Mount Vesuvius continues to increase in force, and is now more violent than at any time since 1822.

Red-hot stones, some weighing two tons each, are hurled to a height of 1,500 feet, falling down the flanks of the mountain with a deafening sound.

Observatory instruments registered 1,544 violent explosions in nine hours today.

Lava has melted the metal of the Funicular Railway, destroyed the upper station and burned the wooden huts in which guides lived.

All vegetation within a radius of a mile of the crater has disappeared. Several earthquake shocks have been felt. Curiosity of tourists to approach the volcano is such that Carabinieri guards have been detailed to prevent them crossing prescribed limits.

PEACE AGREED ON IN URUGUAY.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 25.—Confirmation has been received here of the report of the conclusion of peace between the Uruguayan Government and the revolutionists under General Munoz.

WEATHER REPORT.

Conditions are much unsettled east of the Rocky Mountains, and pressure is low over all districts, except the south Atlantic States and California. There were light local showers yesterday in the lake region, the middle Atlantic States, and Tennessee, and rain continued on the Pacific Coast. Last night there were general showers and thunderstorms in the lake region and Ohio valley, and local showers west of the Rocky Mountains.

The temperature changes have not been marked.

There will be showers tonight and tomorrow in the middle Atlantic States.
